Electronic Music Ensemble

Welcome to tonight's performance.

The history of electronic music is full of different threads: Abstract, academic, ambient, pop, noise, drone, etc. For many, electronic music is synonymous with electronic dance music (EDM) and related sub-genres centered around pulse. The pieces you will hear this evening explore this particular avenue of beat and pulse in novel ways. Some approach it from a direct vantage point of dance music, others explore trance-like elements, and some are immersed in a type of musical pointillism. All encourage a type of listening based in movement and somatic reaction. We hope you will respond accordingly.

Tonight's performance will be a continuous soundscape with individual sets running in approximately 20-minute intervals. You are free to come and go as you please.
